INDIANAPOLIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA'S INfusion MUSIC FEST

Dear Friends,

Welcome to the Hilbert Circle Theatre, and the Indianapolis Symphony's inaugural INfusion Music Fest! This weekend, the ISO is celebrating the connections between music and the environment. The idea behind INfusion was to find a way to connect the ISO's musical work with an important issue facing our community. We are grateful that so many organizations have stepped forward to join the ISO on this adventure, and I would like to thank our community partners: Hoosier Environmental Council, Keep Indianapolis Beautiful, Inc., Earth Charter Indiana, the Indianapolis Zoo, Christian Theological Seminary, Indiana Forest Alliance and IndyGo. I also want to thank our sponsors for making INfusion possible: the Efroymson Family Fund, the Lacy Foundation, Eli Lilly and Co., and Ann M. and Chris Stack.

In keeping with the festival theme, the ISO is making a commitment to reduce its own impact on the environment, beginning with:

- A 10% reduction in energy usage
- The installation of recycling stations in the HCT
- The recycling and transformation of all festival banners by People for Urban Progress

We thank you for being with us, and hope you will take advantage of the many concerts and presentations that are planned for INfusion!

Sincerely,

Gary Ginstling
Chief Executive Officer

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE BY TIME FOR THREE
HILBERT CIRCLE THEATRE LOBBY
8:00 P.M.

Time for Three, or Tf3 for short, has performed from Carnegie Hall and the famed jazz club, Yoshi's, in San Francisco to European festivals, NFL games and the Indy 500. The group's hit YouTube bullying-prevention video, "Stronger," has inspired students across the globe, eliciting features on CNN and the Huffington Post. Since 2009, Tf3 has held a hugely successful residency with the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, helping to expand the orchestra's audience with innovative outreach.

Tf3 remains committed to reaching younger audiences by participating in educational residencies and outreach concerts, including annual visits to Paul Newman's Hole In The Wall Gang Camp; residencies at the Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall Family Concerts; and countless jam sessions and instances of impromptu music-making with students, from university classes to coffee houses.

JAYCE OGREN, CONDUCTOR

With mounting success in both symphonic and operatic repertoire, Jayce Ogren is building a reputation as one of the finest young conductors to emerge from the United States in recent seasons. He began the 2015/2016 season leading Rossini's La Cenerentola at the Music Academy of the West before heading to Paris to conduct the Ensemble Intercontemporain.

A native of Washington State, Ogren received his Bachelor's Degree in Composition from St. Olaf College in 2001 and his Master's Degree in Conducting from the New England Conservatory in 2003. With a Fulbright Grant, he completed a postgraduate diploma in orchestral conducting at the Royal College of Music in Stockholm. He served as Assistant Conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra and Music Director of the Cleveland Youth Orchestra from 2006–2009.

Ogren is an award-winning triathlete, most recently completing the 2015 Boston 2 Big Sur Challenge running the Boston Marathon and the Big Sur Marathon back to back. He makes his home in Brooklyn, New York.

BEN FOLDS

Multi-platinum selling singer/songwriter/producer Ben Folds first found mainstream success as the leader of the critically acclaimed Ben Folds Five. He has gone on to have a very successful solo career, recording multiple studio albums, a pair of records documenting his renowned live performances, a remix record, music for film and TV, as well as numerous collaborations with artists from Sara Bareilles to William Shatner.

In 2013, he composed "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra" to critical acclaim. Since then, Ben has continued his global performance quest, recently recording a new album, So There.

KISHI BASHI

Having collaborated and toured with indie strangelings of Montreal, Regina Spektor, and Sondre Lerche, singer, violinist, and composer, Kaoru Ishibashi (a.k.a. Kishi Bashi), embarks on an epic orchestral solo project. His solo live show is a dazzling array of looping and vocal/violin gymnastics. He is also the singer and founding member of the NYC synth rock band Jupiter One.

In 2011, Kishi Bashi began performing as a solo artist debuting his first EP, Room For Dream. The following year he released his first full-length solo album, 151a, on the Joyful Noise record label. He continued his solo work releasing Lighght in 2014 and Kishi Bashi Strong Quartet: Live in 2015.

SAN FERMIN Pieces announced from stage

SAN FERMIN

Brooklyn-based San Fermin, now an eight-piece touring enterprise, did not start that way. In December of 2012, the initially makeshift project performed a single concert—from sheet music—and signed a record deal. Their self-titled debut was subsequently released worldwide in the fall of 2013 via Downtown Records.

Many of the songs on Jackrabbit, San Fermin's second album, existed only on Ludwig-Leone's laptop for the better part of a year, as he toured and turned the band into an ensemble operation. When at last he revisited them, he knew that they had to be reborn.
