Quintet from the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra to welcome Spring Break travelers at IND

INDIANAPOLIS – Passengers at the Indianapolis International Airport (IND) will be treated to a live performance by a quintet from the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra on Monday, March 11, which marks the start of the busy Spring Break travel period for several area schools.

The quintet will be comprised of violinist Sherry Hong and violist Terry Langdon; Assistant Principal Viola Beverly Scott; Acting Principal Cello Perry Scott; and Principal Contrabass Jufang Liu. The group will perform Antonín Dvořák’s String Quintet in G Major and a selection of Chinese folksongs.

IND’s Civic Plaza will provide a fitting backdrop for the performance, which will take place from 5:30 – 6:30 p.m. A destination in its own right, Civic Plaza features pre-checkpoint shopping, dining and special entertainment events, with artwork and attractions that reflect the character and diversity of Indianapolis and the region. It also serves as the heart of the airport terminal; more than 19,000 passengers per day pass through it to and from the airport’s concourses.
